Plagiarism Policy

JRSEI regards plagiarism as a serious issue of academic and research malpractice and follows a zero-tolerance policy towards plagiarism, not approving any unauthorized use or close imitation of the language and thoughts of another author and the representation of the one's own original work.

Plagiarism examples:

- Putting your name on another person's research or project without proper citation
- Copying exact wording from another person's text without proper citation
- Using another person's photo, diagram, tables, sounds, or ideas without proper citation
- Presenting research in your own words without providing references
- Presenting ideas in the same format and order as your research source without proper citation

Therefore, JRSEI requests to all our author(s) to adopt this policy and JRSEI will not be responsible for further action on plagiarism issue.

Anti-Plagiarism Declaration
